SOUTH DUBLIN RUBAL COUNCIL. to the meeting resterday of the South Dublin and District Council the following resolutions

YESTERDAY'S SHIPPING REPORT.

When Daddy Comes Home When you rejoice that the men who have fought for you will soon be coming home, remember your responsibility to them. Shall their home coming be worthy of their war?

The Three Foes Lloyd George said: "We are fighting Germany and A and Drinh: and the greatest of these deadly foes is Drinn." The men who are coming home have fought two of these foes for you. Will you not fight the deadliest foe of the three for THEM?

Government feared to stop the drink traffic, and gave your Pread your Sugar, your Coal, your Gas to the Brewer, for for a leging rotes.

Prohibition will win Votes

WOMEN OF IRELAND VOTE FOR A SOBER PEACE You can force the War Cabiner, which is even more afraid of your votes than of the brewer, to stop the manufacture and sale of Drink until after Demobilisation is complete, if you let the Candidate who canvasses you know that he will never enter Parliament until he is pledged to work for this. THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA has signed a Bill for the Total Prohibition of the Liquer Traffic during demabilization. This step que taken only after easy careful consideration and on the advice of great Industrial leaders. It is agreed therefore that Prohibition will benefit the nation and industrial two-hers of the UNITED STATES. Why not of the British false?

FASTEST AND BEST PASSENGER ROUTE. BEST COARSE, RLOCK, LUMP ROCK, GROUND ROCK, RAKERS, TABLE, AND DAIRY BALT captured eighteen seats from the Nationalist Party and five from the Independent Nationalists, and they have made a cleant sweep of the counties of Cork and Kerry, There are no unopposed returns in North-East Ulster, but it is fairly certain that Sir Edward Carson's party will go back to Parliament in full strength, to carry out its new policy of "closer union." Four Unionists, were nominated yesterday for seats in the City and County of Dublic seats in the City and County of County of the Germans set up under there Establish the Kethonia. Neither party showed the slightest disposition for compromise: they hated one another even more than they hated of Dublin "with a view to as of Dubli the prospect of losing eight seats to Sir Edward Carson. To the Church, however, Edward Carson. To the Church, however, the retention of these seats was vital, for Sir Edward has just declared war on one of its dearest interests in the North. Eight bishops suggested a compromise which would save the seats. When the Nationalists appeared to hesitate Cardinal Logue said that, if "any pettifogging difficulties" were raised "in opposition to the settlement proposed by the bishops," he would advise all the Nationalists electors in the eight seats to vote for Sina Fein candidates. It was the same Cardinal, be it in the eight seats to vote for Sina Fein candidates. It was the same Cardinal, be it noted, who recently denounced the Sina Fein policy as foolish and calamitous. The compromise was effected; the distribution of the seats was left to His Eminence; and he pronounced his fiat—"I have decided that the seats should be allocated as follows." This ecclesiastical intervention. cided that the seats should be allocated as follows. It this connection an follows. Sinn Femers, but not a single one of them has lifted a protesting voice.

The Coalition Party, which will soon be in power, has adopted an Irish policy of partition. It proposes to annex North-East Ulster as an English county and to give Home Rule to the rest of Ireland. Apart from Nationalist Ireland's whole-hearted rejection of this scheme, the present elections are demonstrating, its present elections are demonstrating its impossibility. The new Parliament will never consent to surrender three-fourths of Ireland to the party which will win most of the elections—the party which disowns the British Empire and repudiates all loyalty to the King. Logarity pudiates all loyalty to the King. League of Nations or no League of Nations, the Coalition will never set up a hostile Irepowers to help our next enemy in our next war. During the past week the Roman Catholic Church has done two things which must have an immense influence on the political outlook of Irish Unionism, and on Great Britain's attitude to the Nationalist demands, whether for Dominion Nationalist demands, whether for Dominion Self-government or for an Irish Republic. The Church has asserted its right to be the supreme authority in Nationalist politics, and has proved its power to enforce that claim. It has made more than one similar interference in the last two years. After the robellion it challenged Mr. Lloyd George's partition proposals and, a few months ago, it defied the Government to apply conscription to Ireland. It may be said, perhaps, that on those two occasions it was merely giving expression to the views of the great mass of Irish Nationalism. No such explanation, however, will meet the case of the eight seats in Ulster. There the Dillonites and the Sona Feiners were at daggers and the Sona Feiners were at daggers.

Rapid—immediate business reconstruction and reorganisation are the vital issues of the hour Firms who have installed K&J Service and business systems are ready—will leap forward to the first place in productions and in distribution The firms who from any cause whatseever have been unable to organise properly, should at once call at the nearest K&J Showrooms and investigate the new K&J business systems, the adoption of which ensure increased production with less effort. Cross, somebody's granny contentedly watches the bustle of the old-fashioned market with its cobble-stones and flapping stall covers.

As she watches the groups of shrewd housewives exchanging confidences in the intervals of bargaining, she thinks of the time when she could drive a bargain with the best. But Time makes no difference to her as far as Hudson's Soap is concerned. Hudson's is always the same—as big a bargain as ever.

Although the old-fashioned markets now are few,

and the village cross an object of interest,

Hudson's is still used everywhere for making linen as sweet and fresh as the sea breeze, for washing-up after meals.
